STEP 01 · DEFINE

DEFINE THE CREATURE

A creature is not a brand yet. Start by locking what must stay recognizable.

BRAND BRIEF

Goal: turn one creature into a repeatable product world.

Keep: anatomy, palette, mood, and world.

Avoid: real brands, real logos, existing franchises, and readable AI text.

STEP 02 · DNA

BUILD THE BRAND DNA

Short, visible rules keep the board readable before the generations start.

GOAL

- One creature
- One brand system

STONE

- Eerie
- Playful
- Collectible
- Retro sci-fi

VISUAL RULES

- Green
- Violet
- Orange
- Black
- Lab graphics

AVOID

- Real brands
- Real logos
- Existing franchises
- Readable AI text

STEP 03 · EXPLORE

PROMPT THE PRODUCT WORLD

Use the creature as a reference, then ask Firefly for a whole product system.

Create a fictional product and merch application board for SPECIMEN 7-B, a retrofuturist creature brand based on this original alien specimen. Show cohesive applications across sticker sheets, t-shirt graphics, toy packaging, action-figure concepts, plush toy concepts, enamel-pin style badges, logo lockups, product tags, hang tags, and social campaign graphics. Preserve the creature's brain-like domed form, tentacle-like segmented limbs, toxic green and ultraviolet violet glow, safety orange accents, deep black shadows, playful-but-eerie lab science mood, and 1970s pulp sci-fi graphic language. Make it feel like one consistent brand system, not random monster merch. No real brands, no real logos, no existing franchises, no readable text.

CREATE BRAND APPLICATIONS

Drag the strongest generations together so the product family is easy to compare.

IMAGE → SYSTEM

The creature stops being one image and starts becoming a repeatable product system.

STEP 05 · SORT

SORT, THEN REFINE

SPECIMEN 7-B

PRODUCT + MERCH SYSTEM

Strongest Firefly direction: a full product-world treatment. Before posting, clean up garbled AI text or accidental brand-like marks so the system stays original and readable.

RECAP + YOUR TURN

BUILD A WORLD AROUND YOUR WEIRD IDEA.

Start with one strong image. Use Firefly Boards to define, explore, compare, refine, and reveal the system.
